We had just moved into a new house settling in quite nice staying up late late to unpack but we still tried to go to sleep eventually, but anyhow one night at dinner time i went to feed my cats who still were scared of something and hiding all the time and not eating which they are usually obese and cant get enough but animals know when something is not right before you do, for when i cuddled them they smelt like strawberry shampoo or something which i thought was odd for thats never happened, but i just didnt think anything of it until late that night nearly morning when i went to go to bed the bed felt narrower for some reason smaller my bf said the same thing, it had just stopped raining and was cold so i had cranked up the ducted heating hours ago so i wasnt cold in bed bad idea, this temp awakens this beast of unknown smell which swooped though the door through all the rooms for hours then gone by sunrise and back again around the same time the first day we smelt it i remembered what the cats smelt like it was exactly that but with a stronger foul chemically gas revolting unbareable smell ontop of it which overpowered some days to the extreme where we became delirious and alful ill feet mutated at the heel for it was like acid through the carpets it burnt holes in my shoes gave us weird bruise like shapes all on our skin which the hosp said its discolouration of the skin which this happens from being poisoned the docs said if we were there anylonger we would of died but this is the start of the worse part that happened which i wont go on and scare you but i will tell you this house was 50 times worse than what i thought satans hell would be like i mean my imagination didnt even think this could happen thats why its so unknown even by docs and this house got creapier and creapier every day that the smell entered it started off just like your storie even with the taste on the lips what ever that thing was scared everything i believed in into another galaxy and left me and my bf in a hole of dilierious confusion we went to a hotel straight after the hosp and slept 4 days straight didnt even wake up for drink toilet nothing its like we missed the days or they didnt happen but it was cause we were so disoriented and still not knowing what we had just freakyly witnessed i mean my feet went back to normal after a week but i couldnt walk before that week and my period guess what colour it was dont even think yuk like blood it was like fluro at a rave fluesent bright green for i had it through my entire system ive researched and still a yr later have found no stories similar until yours i have been researching plantation and chemistry to and figure cause its so rare and unbelievably unknown that maybe just so i have some sort of relaxation in stress relief with a idea of the conclusion that possibly it was a mutated form of fungus that had mixed with a potent plant or fruit and something else got mixed up in it to but without a doubt remember for example when you were a child and told about monsters and how freaked out you were forget monsters or anything that scares you to even think about for this thing was beyond spirituality belief for this was furture than anyones imagination could go and it is on earth with us and there may be more so really reality check i am scared always and even hidid away in the bathroom for 2 or 3 mths after the incident cause im terrified and because you are looking like the early stages of it get out before you witness what us two ppl did no one would want to go through it i cant even put myself in the same suburb as that house evil just doesnt cut it enough, plus its a deadly substance/real living thing and highly toxic poisenous if you leave it to late you will die we were wearing 3 guard masks each and the smell was still overlapping while we were trying to get our stuff out inthe end when the freaky things wouldnt end we gave up and left everything and got removerlists to get everything neally a week later and we ended up having to throw most of it anyway for it left patches of black like paint on furniture and discolourations and spore like things that were putting up a fight not to be covered up or removed just the spore things were to tough to handle let alone the rest of it plus my whole kitchen and other material items i havent managed to get the stench off them of that chemically imbalanced pull my brain 8 different ways at once strawberry barely sweet anymore scent of knock me out toxicity that smell has worn down since the yr has past but if i smell it on anything i have kept while not living there anymore straight away i get a migraine from it and chuck it out
